

90,000 U. N. TROOPS JUMP OFF AT DAYBREAK IN SECOND DAY OF "KILLER" OFFENSIVE ON KOREA'S MUDDY CENTRAL FRONT; ANTICIPATE SHARP FIGHTING FROM THE ENEMY

Surprise Offensive Encounters Little or No Opposition

SLASH NORTHWARD

Line of Offensive Extends From Yangpyong To Wonju

(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Feb. 22.—(INS)—United Nations troops numbering upwards of 90,000 men jumped off at daybreak today in the second day of their "killer" offensive on Korea's muddy central front anticipating sharp fighting from prepared enemy positions.

The surprise Allied offensive—grimly dubbed "Operation Killer" by the U. S. Eighth Army—encountered little or no enemy opposition in its first stages.

Despite a driving rain that let up by mid-morning Thursday, Allied units slashed northward for gains up to eight and a half miles and killed, wounded or captured more than 2,100 enemy soldiers.

The Eighth Army announced frankly that the offensive was designed to "kill as many Communists as possible."

Troops of five Allied nations gave the gun to the offensive on the 50-mile wide mountainous enemy front in an area where enemy troops were still licking their wounds from a crushing defeat last week.

The line of the "killer" offensive extended from Yangpyong, on the Han river 22 miles east of Seoul, to Wonju, pivotal road and rail hub on the eastern flank.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Eighth Army commander, personally gave the order to attack at 10 a. m. Wednesday less than 24 hours.

"ON THE WHOLE... PERFECT"

George Washington's part in the events that led up to the Revolutionary War did much to insure united action when the American colonies at last took the grave step of declaring themselves free and independent states.

His genius as a general and as a leader of men made an unparalleled contribution to victory in that struggle. Yet his true greatness as a patriot-statesman reached its flower only with the coming of peace.

It did not take him long, when he had laid down his sword, to see that "something must be done, or the fabric must fall, for it is certainly tottering." The political structure that had been strong enough for war, because the danger of defeat had held it together, was too weak for peacetime.

When commissioners from Virginia and Maryland met in the spring of 1785 to discuss the navigation of the Potomac, Washington was their host at Mt. Vernon. This meeting produced the call for the Constitutional Convention. It was no accident that he was chosen to preside over its deliberations. Nor was the magnificent result an accident in the light of his insistence on probing the matter "to the bottom" and finding "a radical cure."

Washington's devotion to his country, his vision, his energy, his judgment, his integrity, his selflessness—all these gave him a commanding position among a generation of distinguished men. It may be said that Washington's contemporaries knew greatness when they saw it and followed its lead. But it was this nation's good fortune to have at its beginnings a man who could deserve Jefferson's tribute:

"On the whole his character was in its mass perfect, in nothing bad, in few points indifferent; and it may truly be said of him that never did nature and fortune combine more perfectly to make a man great."

TREATY'S ANNIVERSARY

It was just a year ago that Communist China and Soviet Russia became formally allied. To mark the anniversary, Stalin and Mao Tse-tung have exchanged congratulatory telegrams. Mao's said that the Chinese-Soviet treaty of friendship, alliance and mutual aid has been "not only a great help to the reconstruction of a new China, but also a powerful assurance in opposing aggression and maintaining peace and security in the Far East and the world."

Stalin's wire is reported to have expressed the belief that the treaty will be beneficial to friendship between the two nations "and to world peace."

These messages hold grim irony for the non-communist world. The treaty, which Russian and Chinese leaders so proudly hail, has brought Asia not peace but a bitter war. It has given the Chinese confidence to embark on aggressive ventures on several fronts. And it is threatening to plunge the world into another global war.

100 Take Oath As Security Police Officers Here

protect industry, public utilities and property generally and are also to be prepared to be sent elsewhere, if the necessity arises. The firemen, under Fire Chief Clifford Hagerman, are being organized and are in good shape to perform their duties. This job is not going to be child's play. You may even be called upon to act against your relatives and friends, should the occasion arise. The Bristol police under Chief Jones, the special police under Captain Lynn, are collaborating in these plans," said the burgess.

The burgess also stated that members of the Anchor Yacht Club and the Bristol Yacht Club are to be organized. This was more fully explained later by Captain Lynn. Mr. Lynn in explaining the part the yacht clubs members would play told of plans for organizing a harbor patrol. "It would be foolish to protect the interior of the borough and to leave the shore line and bridges unprotected. So we plan to form a harbor patrol among the yacht club members."

Chief Jones thanked the men for responding to the invitation and said it is planned to hold classes later whereby the men can be made familiar with the basic laws of police work, and the laws of the borough.

The guest speaker, Sgt. McCarr, expressed pleasure at finding so many men of such caliber as were present, willing to give of their time and services for the community and the welfare of others.

"It was in 1917 the volunteer special police were first organized," said the speaker. "The group was formed to provide protection to industry, public buildings, public services, and to preserve the peace and protect the safety of the community."

Then the speaker told of the ending of the war, the coming of another war, and of the disturbed conditions of the present time, electrified with fear, doubt and confusion. "We have a tremendous responsibility and the police force is considered a balance wheel of any community."

Speaking of the various "isms," and telling how these "isms" get a foothold, he cautioned the men doing police duty, and told them they must be on the alert, must avoid brutality, and graft, and must have the confidence of the people and avoid hysteria and chaos. "I have the highest respect for you who are willing to give your time and films advertised for the off-hours during the week. You will find names you never heard of, and when you see the movies, will see actors and stories which, if you ever saw them at all before, long ago dropped out of your mind.

There are not the production numbers that Hollywood boasted about. Mostly they are the "quickies," the B-pictures, the second halves of double-features—the sort of thing you sat through fifteen years ago when the fad for dishes and movie-theatre bingo was on. The stories were crude, the acting sometimes less than could be desired, and the material was scooped up right out of the heart of the Depression.

In these movies, references to the depression, to unemployment, to relief, to the uncertainties and anxieties and fears of that now-forgotten period, are frequent and pointed.

There were three big political landmarks of those years—the first re-election of the New Deal in 1936; the big relapse in the depression, just as the White House thought it had the depression licked ("we planned it that way," 1937); and the final emergence from depression into defense-boom and war, May of 1940.

Anyone who went through that period in touch with the world and with a finger on the American pulse is bound to have many sharp reminders of emotions and disappointments long past.

The vague terror in the nation's hearts, and the sullen realization, after 1937, that the New Deal not only hadn't licked the Depression, but, short of war never was going to—those emotions are part of the psychology which kept President Roosevelt in office twice as many terms as any other American President ever served, and entrenched the bureaucrats so deep that now, under Truman, one has to wonder whether anything short of national bankruptcy will ever shake them loose.

Fear is a harsh teacher, and not the one who brings out the best in her pupils.

Many a person today, grown up since the events involved, wonders just what led the German people to accept Hitler, and persuaded the Italian citizens to go along with Mussolini.

A few years from now, it may easily be that similar new generations will be asking what it was that led the American people to trust the New Deal, or made them so reluctant to face the realities of inflation before it smashed our economy, or blinded us to the growing threat of dictatorship in our government.

As these odd-hour movies from the half-forgotten past so clearly remind us, the human reaction behind all these great political tragedies was the same—blind, unreasoning fear which cut down self-reliance and the love of liberty.

In quite a different sense than originally said, what we had to fear most was fear itself—fear of what the emotion of fear would lead us to surrender, out of our personal rights and our spirit of independence, in a vain effort to buy the sense of security which mankind actually never can know short of prison or the grave.

resources to the aid of others. You are soldiers of the law." He spoke of Lincoln and Washington, and said their lives remain a burning beacon for the essence of freedom and obedience to law.

90,000 U. N. Troops Jump Off at Daybreak

after General MacArthur, on a visit to the front, instructed his commanders to "resume the initiative."

UN troops—representing the United States, the Republic of Korea, Britain, Australia and New Zealand—faced an estimated enemy force of 40,000 men dug in on a defense line in mountainous central Korea.

Intelligence officers said they understood the enemy troops were under orders to hold the line at all costs.

The confidence and strength of Allied forces were reflected in the fact that they were able to mount a general offensive following so close on the heels of last week's major battles. This gave the enemy—his first time in Korea—no chance for a breathing spell.

Allied officers pointed out that never before have the Chinese and North Korean Reds been forced into a new battle without a two or three week lull to rebuild their strength.

UN armor—tanks, trucks and self-propelled guns—was thrown into the van of the attack in tremendous numbers leading the foot-soldiers to battle.

The main test of UN strength appeared to be building up in the Hoengsong area, about 50 miles east of Seoul. Hoengsong lies on the main lateral highway crossing the Korean peninsula.

An estimated 10,000 to 15,000 Chinese Communist troops were deployed in the Hoengsong area, reportedly ready for a "death stand."

Republic of Korea elements made the largest gain of the Allied offensive's first day Wednesday when they slashed northward for a distance of more than eight and a half miles. These ROK troops reached a point five miles west of Hoengsong.

USE AMBULANCES

Charles Mott, Cornwells Heights, was removed to Jeanes hospital, Phila., and Miss Della Edwards, Maple Manor Nursing Home, Langhorne, taken to Abington hospital, yesterday, by the Bucks County Rescue Squad.

"We must show our fellowmen, too," he said, "a faith to bolster theirs."

The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff warned that this nation must "stand up" to share its wealth

Major Henry Stecher Is Heard at Defense Session

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Feb. 22

Major Henry Stecher, U. S. Army, volunteer medical corps, was the speaker at the Civilian Defense committee meeting Tuesday evening, in Bensalem high school. Eighty-five residents of Bensalem township attended.

J. Alfred Rigby, deputy coordinator, introduced committee members and Major Stecher, who presented interesting facts concerning civilian defense.

He mentioned the serious problems facing residents should the dangerous A-bomb be dropped. "An adequate first aid corps is needed and temporary hospitals will have to be set up."

Two films were shown, "A Tale of Two Cities" and "Beachhead at Normandy."

Those attending were given cards to be signed in order that they might be called upon to do volunteer work in case of disaster in the local area.

BOX CAR SHORTAGE MAY AFFECT NEWSPAPERS

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 22

A spokesman for the American Newspaper Publishers Association said today the shortage of boxcars for shipment of vital newspaper supplies to U. S. Publishers is still critical. Cranston Williams, General Manager of ANPA, said Canadian newspaper production is continuing and enough boxcars have been found to keep shipments moving "but not at a desirable rate."

Williams urged publishers to unload their newspaper shipments quickly and return empty cars to the railroads as soon as possible so they may be returned to Canada for reloading.

HAND IN WRINGER

PTA Founder's Day Given Consideration

that all future meetings will be held in the old Edgely building.
A small sum is to be set aside to be used for welfare work when necessary, according to Mrs. Booz who reported in the absence of Mrs. Howard Bintliff, of the welfare committee.

Mrs. Clarence Kay stated there is a total of 174 members to date. The school board has given permission for a sink to be installed in the basement of the old Edgely school building, a donation of L. D. Davis Co.

Mrs. Howard Hilgendorf was appointed chairman of a bake sale to be held March 17th at the A. & P. market, Bristol, and at the homes of Mrs. Samuel Smith, Edgely, and Mrs. John Austin, Bristol Terrace I. Martin Fallon made a motion that $10 be sent as a Founder's Day gift to the National P. T. A. Association.

Youth Week was discussed and Martin Fallon is to be the representative at Youth Week meetings.

The newly-appointed third grade teacher, Miss Jacquelin Andrews, was introduced by Mrs. John Ellis. Attendance awards were given to the rooms of Mrs. John Wilkes, Mrs. Ralph Parson, and George Mukalian.

The program chairman, Mrs. Adolph Ancker, introduced Mrs. Pratt, who spoke concerning "Founder's Day."

Refreshments were served, including a birthday cake decorated in honor of "Founder's Day."

Title is Changed To Interstate Marine Ass'n

The name of the Lower Bucks County Marine Association has been changed to Interstate Marine Association, it is announced today. The change in name was brought about due to the growth of the association to include groups other than those in Bucks County.

In 1940 three companies joined together to form the Lower Bucks County Marine Association. The main purpose was life-saving and rescue work. During the years following, other organizations seeing the advantage of a combined group functioning at drownings and other types of rescue work, requested membership in the association. As a result of this the association now has a total of 16 independent fire companies and rescue squads from Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The organization feels that the name, Lower Bucks County Marine Association, no longer describes the association, and therefore has changed the title.

The telephone number, Bristol 4518, will remain the same. The new title of the association is effective immediately.

Washington Tea Follows Book Review for D. A. R.

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 22 — Mrs. Ann Hawkes Hutton, of Edgely, member of Washington Crossing State Park Commission, was guest speaker before the Bucks County Daughters of the American Revolution, Monday, in the Swartzlander House.

Mrs. William V. Loughery, Newtown, regent of the chapter, conducted the short business meeting, at which time Mrs. John B. Force of Yardley, chairman of national defense, gave a brief summary of defense to date.

Mrs. Hutton spoke on her book "George Washington Crossed Here," the resume of which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Tea followed, with Mrs. William G. Herridge at the tea table and Mrs. Arvine Clarke, Miss Anna Armstrong, Mrs. M. B. Markus and Mrs. Carlile Hobensack as hostesses.

The next meeting will be a covered dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. Adolph Poneck, Mechanicsville, March 19th.

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmer so that they feel more comfortable. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Choice "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug store. (Advertisement)

PROFY GOES INTO LEAD OF COURT LEAGUE

The Profy team went into first place in the Bristol Basketball League last night as it scored a 68-57 win over the Lucisano Brothers team on the Rohm and Haas court. The Lucisano team had been on the top perch or deadlocked for the lead since the start of the season.

The game was a rough affair with the officials calling 20 personals and a technical foul on Profy's and 23 fouls on the Lucisano contingent. Lucisano lost Ken Parr and Joe Breisford on fouls while Buck Profy and Joe Pindar went out for Profy's. The latter, leading scorer of the circuit, committed his fifth foul near the close of the third quarter.

Lucisano also lost the services of "Mickey" Stradling in the third session, he injuring his ankle.

The Profymen led from the start. With "Ham" Konefal zipping the cords for 7 points and Alan Burton, four, they built up a 17-7 margin in the first quarter while the Lucisano team was having difficulty in penetrating the Mill streeters' defense.

The radiomen continued to rack up goals in the second quarter with Joe Pindar and "Eddie" Oliver leading the attack. At one time, the lead rose to 29-12 but the Tullytown team staged a spurt with "Mickey" Stradling and Roy Lynch accounting for 12 points and Parr coming through with five, the half-time lead was shaved to 37-28.

Profy's kept its margin of eight points or better until the final quarter when "Johnny" Paone started to click on his bank shots. Getting assistance from Roy Lynch, the pair managed to pulverize the Profy lead to four points, the score being 54-50. But Val Biebecki and Oliver connected for field goals and Konefal had five points on a felder and trio foul which gave the Profymen enough points to coast to the triumph.

Konefal scored 21 points for the Profymen with Burton getting 16 and Pindar, 15. Paone and Lynch had 14 points each for Lucisano. Paone got 13 of his points in the second half.

HIBERNIANS STILL CLIMBING INTO THIRD PLACE

The Hibernians continued their climb in the Bristol Basketball League, moving into a deadlock with Franklin for third place with a one-sided 58-39 triumph over the Rohm and Haas team last night on the latter's floor.

The victory strengthened the Hibbs' chances of getting a playoff position. They still have to play the league-leading Profy team. Franklin has to meet Cornwells Boys Club while Rohm and Haas will play Profy's in the final game of the season.

The Corson street aggregation was a smooth-working outfit against the chemical mixers. The first period was close with the Hibbs getting an 11-8 lead. However, "Bill" Burr began to plant his long shots into the net in the second quarter and scored five field goals to help the Hibbs to a 27-18 lead.

In the second half, the ultimate winners opened up with a fast passing attack which swept the Maple Beach team off its feet. The edge went to 38-23 at the close of the third session. In the final period, "Johnny" Rodgers, who had been blanked the first three quarters, cut the cords for a quintet of fielders.

Burr scored 18 points for the winners with both Rodgers and Bill McGerr having 19. Augie Everitt tallied 15 points for Rohm and Haas.

Puppets Are Being Girded by Stalin

mania was restricted to an army of 120,000 men, Hungary was not supposed to have more than 65,000 under arms.

It is further reported that Moscow has ordered the communist puppet regime in Budapest to produce by June of this year a total of one armored and eight infantry divisions. This would be four more divisions than it is estimated the Hungarian army now has organized.

Both the Romanian and Hungarian armies are being equipped with Russian weapons, though most of them are believed to be obsolete. In addition to the strengthening of these two satellite armies, drastic measures have been taken in Romania and Hungary to speed up industrial re-armament.

A new emergency program was formulated in Hungary last month to accelerate armament production, develop substitutes for raw materials and apply strict economy in all branches of civilian industry.

Thousands of people are reportedly being transferred from administrative jobs to factory work.

Scores of plants are being transformed for military purposes and new armament factories are being constructed under disguised names.

For example, it is reported that tanks and armored cars are being built at a so-called agricultural plant in Jaszbereny. A "stove" factory in Salgotarjan is reportedly producing light arms and artillery.

Part of Hungary's biggest steel and machine factory at Dios-Gyoei is being transformed to produce guns and other weapons. Armored trains are being built at a steel factory in Budapest.

Cost of the rearmament program in Hungary is being financed in part by a so-called "peace" loan to which the workers are compelled to contribute.

A recent Hungarian government decree sharply restricted the use of private automobiles. Those who cannot prove urgent need for the use of their cars have been told they must sell them to the state at fixed prices.

New military training centers are reportedly springing up in both Romania and Hungary. A large one is reported to have been established in the Romanian Brasov region.

In Hungary, new military barracks have been erected in Ercsi; tank depots are being constructed near Esztergom, and a military airfield is being developed on the island of Csepel. The Kossuth academy in Tatavos is being used as a training base of officers of armored units.

Western diplomats also have received reports that several Hungarian regiments were recently sent to Russia, presumably for training purposes.

Reorganization and expansion of the Hungarian army is being carried out by General Stephen Batta, who is assisted by a team of Russian staff officers.

There have been rumors that Soviet Marshal Malinovsky would soon take over control of Romania's armed forces in much the same manner as Marshal Rokossovsky has done in Poland. Malinovsky has already been made an "honorary" citizen of Romania.

Romania is considered to be of the most importance to Russia's war potential in Europe, strategically as well as from the standpoint of supply.

It provides the Soviet Union with its best route to south and south-east Europe. Its oil producing regions also furnish an important percentage of combustible supplies for the Soviet troops in Europe, as well as for the Russian Black Sea Fleet.

If Russia wishes to ease the tension in Europe, as Moscow has claimed she does in the various notes to the western powers concerning a conference on German demilitarization, the allied governments consider it essential that the military preparations in the satellite states be drastically curtailed. American diplomats particularly feel that the defense of western Europe will not be assured by the demilitarization of Germany alone as long as there are nearly 1,500,000 men under arms in the Soviet satellite states.

It is for this reason that, as Acheson intimated last week, the western powers want the question of the rearmament of these satellite states included on the agenda of the proposed big four conference.

Message in Testimony, Song Given at Rally

YARDLEY, Feb. 22 - Miss Cartrude L'Arronge, soprano, formerly with European opera companies, was the guest speaker at the Bristol Sub-District Methodist Youth Fellowship rally, held in Yardley Methodist Church on Tuesday evening. Miss L'Arronge gave her message in testimony and song. Among the musical numbers she rendered were "Down From His Glory, Ever Living Story" and "I'd Rather Have Jesus Than Silver and Gold." Edward Daugherty, Yardley Church, had charge of the service. Following the service a business meeting was presided over by the president, William Vansant. The minutes were read by Edward Higgins in the absence of the secretary, Miss Anne Hedrick. The treasurer's report was also given. It was announced that the next rally will be in Bensalem Church at which time members of that church will present a one-act play, entitled "Release." The hymn sing will be March 4th at Hulmeville. An Emile group was awarded the first a'cendence banner, and Bensalem the second.

BUCKS BUDGET HIGHER
BY SUM OF $91,625*Estimated Total Expenditures
For County Will Be
$1,130,020*"CORRECTIVE" COSTS

An increase of $91,625.32 over last year's budget of $1,038,395.33 was listed by County Commissioners and the county controller, Howard Krupp. They estimate total expenditures this year for Bucks County will total $1,130,020.65.

Estimated receipts for the current year will be derived in the following manner: Cash and securities for appropriation $170,205.85, receipts from current tax levy $672,414.80, receipts from taxes of previous years $76,150.00, receipts from other revenues $153,150.00, and non-revenue receipts $58,000.00.

As usual, the general government of the county will account for the great share of the estimated expenditures. This figure will reach $590,000.00, and includes such departments as the controller's offices, the county commissioners, elections, taxes, tax collectors, zoning and planning and maintenance of all county buildings.

Also covered by the general government expenditures is the judicial end of our county government where $4,000.00 will be spent on the law library alone. The judicial department includes the courts, the district attorney, justices of the peace and aldermen. This department will account for $213,300.00 of the general government expenditures.

Included in the budget is a total outlay of $266,655.00 for corrective purpose in the county. This covers the detention of juveniles in foster homes, $71,000.00, the maintenance of juveniles under age 12 in institutions, $35,000.00, and the maintenance of inmates in corrective and penal institutions, including the county jail.

In the institutional department, estimated expenditures are placed at $186,205.87. This includes general administration, $14,500.00, County Home, $86,600.00, County Home Farm, $48,775.00, capital outlay, $9,917.87, miscellaneous, $11,263.00, and interest and debt service, $15,150.00.

NEWS OF SCHOOLS IN AREA...

All public, private and parochial schools in the Bristol area are invited to send news items for publication in this column which appears frequently.

St. Mary's Hall

BURLINGTON, Feb. 22 — The trustees of St. Mary's Hall met February 13 with the Rt. Rev. Wallace J. Gardner, President of the Board presiding. At the Bishop's invitation representatives from both parents and alumnae were present to discuss the school's forward program, in view of the predicted industrial expansion on both sides of the river that it is believed will result in a greatly increased enrollment of students next fall, both in day students and boarders. New families moving into nearby towns are already making inquiries about the school and there are frequent visitors at the Hall who contemplate sending their daughters here in September.

To meet the transportation needs the trustees announce a new bus service to transport day students to and from school in the Philadelphia-Trenton area. Complete schedules for these buses will be announced later.

Miss Florence Lukens Newbold, the school's Headmistress, leaves in a few days to attend a two-day Conference of the Heads of Church Schools to be held at Racine, Wisconsin, February 25 through 27. One of the chief speakers will be the Rev. Francis Voelcker, Professor of Religious Education at Seabury-Western Seminary, who will discuss "New Methods in Group Learning." From this Conference Miss Newbold will go to Chicago to attend a Conference of the National Association of Principals of School for Girls, February 28 to March 1, at the close of this session she will go to Columbia, Missouri, as the guest of Stephens College. The College plane will fly her to Columbia and back to Chicago. On her way home she will stop off to visit with Alumnae groups in Pittsburgh and other cities.

On Sunday, February 25, St. Mary's Hall will have the privilege of having as its guest preacher at Evensong, the Rev. Reolif H. Brooks, rector of St. Thomas Church, New York City. Dr. Brooks is an old and devoted friend of the school and has visited it on many previous occasions. Mrs. Vanita A. Smith, Director of Music, has arranged an especially fine choral service for the occasion, preceded by an organ recital. It is hoped that many visitors will take advantage of the opportunity to hear this well known clergyman and the musical program.

George School

GEORGE SCHOOL, Feb. 22 — Formation of a new agency to help students locate summer work was announced this week by George School, the service to be available to pupils age 16 and over, 61 of whom have signed up requesting summer 1951 employment.

The new summer job bureau operates through the school's public relations office, and work in signing up applicants and trying to find job openings for them has been done by a 15-member student P.R. committee. No fee is charged. The applicant must have parental consent. The bureau aims primarily to bring information about job openings to George School students; getting the job is then left to the applicant.

Those who have registered for summer work thus far have asked for employment in these fields: 28 in resort or camp work; seven in store work; six, farm; four, office work; four, child care; two, construction; two, newspaper work; and steamship, social work, theater projectionist, nurse's aide, telephone operator, and soda jerk.

Other recent developments at George School found Leah Perkins, head of the school's fine arts program, traveling to Rockford College (Illinois) to advise and criticize, at Rockford's request, the college art work between Feb. 20 and Feb. 25. She will be available there for demonstration classes, and will help the college re-study the place of art in education. Miss Perkins, who began teaching at George School in 1943, is a well-known painter, critic and advisor on the arts in the Philadelphia area.

St. Francis Vocational

EDDINGTON, Feb. 22 — Monday, February 19, was observed at St. Francis Vocational School, Eddington, as a special day. It commemorated the proclamation two years ago of a simple hard working man as one worthy of admiration and imitation. It was the beautification of Brother Benilde of the Brothers of the Christian Schools. That is the giving him the title blessed, the step next to that of saint. Since then he has been so honored by the Brothers throughout the world.

Brother Benilde was one who went about his daily tasks about the school in Sanguay, France, where he spent many years. Both as teacher and later as Director it was the same. In honoring him it is the ordinary man of extraordinary steadfastness and devotion that they honor.

The boys had a special reason for observing the day for besides being under the care of the Brothers of the Christian Schools they have as director one who bears the same name as their patron.

New Hope-Solebury School

NEW HOPE, Feb. 22 — The pupils in New Hope-Solebury high school who are in the office practice course are now transcribing from a dictaphone. The machine will be available for three months on the school rental plan.

Seniors transcribing are Sue Bradley, Kay Stintman, Joyce Worthington and Olga Zelenewich. Junior typists will also have time to get acquainted with the dictaphone.

Other machines included in the office practice course are the ten column adding machine, bookkeeping machine, calculator, reograph, and mimeograph.

Miss Anna Wright is teacher of the school's office practice course.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Politics and Mr. Truman

Washington, Feb. 22. It is unfortunate for the cause of unity and the effectiveness of the defense effort that a crisis such as now confronts us should have come just 16 months ahead of the time when the two parties meet in convention to nominate their candidates for the presidency. Under such circumstances, it just is futile to expect real abandonment of partisan politics.

Nothing short of an all-out full-scale war could bring about that ideal condition. However, a much closer approach to it could be made by both parties. For example, some of the Republican attacks upon Mr. Truman and the Truman foreign policies have been clearly political in their nature, hardly based on facts at all. This is true of such men as Mr. Werry, Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Kem in the Senate and of various Republican members of the House. Doubtless, there would have been greater public resentment over these attacks were it not for the general attitude of the President and his Democratic Administration. From these the country had a right to expect a demand for bipartisanship in the face of national peril and also an example that would have made Republican partisanship appear far more indefensible than it is. But, has the President and his Administration set such an example? The answer is emphatically, no. On the contrary, their performance has been of a kind to force partisanship on the other side and diminish public confidence in the honesty of their own breast-beating pronouncements and appeals.

There are several directions in which failure to measure up to even reasonably high standards has created bad feeling and promoted political discord. Mr. Truman's actions ought to square with his words. This they have not done. Take the question of economy. At no time in our history has economy been so vital. With an unprecedentedly heavy burden of taxation; with the Russian threat forcing the appropriation of many billions of dollars for defense; with a deficit of $25,000,000,000 staring us in the face; with the national debt approaching the $300,000,000,000 mark; with the Federal financial structure strained to the limit—with all these things too clear to dispute—drastic reduction in non-defense expenditures is clearly essential.

From time to time Mr. Truman has expressed himself as favoring economy but he has utterly failed to provide the leadership without which real economy cannot be achieved. Actually, he now "dares" Congress to cut his budget, insists it cannot be done. And this in the face of estimates by economic experts that from 7 to 9 billions could be saved without impairing any important governmental activity. His inability to grasp the danger involved in permitting Federal finances to get out of control is one of the most appalling aspects of the national scene.

The enfeebling effect of this refusal to follow his talk about economy with affirmative action is considerably increased by his discouraging performance in dealing with other domestic problems connected with defense. One of these is the obvious weight given to the bullying demands of organized labor that it be accorded equal voice with industry in formulating mobilization policies. No one who recalls the shameful record of union labor in the last war can fail to contemplate such a proposal with abhorrence. In that war, labor's highly publicized "no-strike" pledge became a joke. As has been repeatedly charged, literally hundreds of strikes, slowing down production and prolonging the war, occurred after this pledge had been proclaimed as a great patriotic gesture. That is all it was—just a gesture. And that was all those laudatory Labor Day statements issued by Cabinet officials, under pressure from the then President (Mr. Roosevelt) were, too.

Now, the almost obsequious Administration attitude toward labor inspires fear that its threats will again lead to damaging concessions. The hope of preventing these rests not in the White House but in the strength of War Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson. Fear that if the labor bosses again are given their way, Mr. Wilson will quit, may avert a surrender. But nothing else will. A second problem whose handling by the President disturbs informed men is created by the vast number of paid jobs (60,000 in the last war) which are being rapidly filled by the price stabilizer, Mr. DiSalle. The activity of Mr. William Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and the rush of recommendations from Democratic senators already has led to the resignation—in disgust—of one of Mr. DiSalle's aides and the charge that this agency, with Truman approval, will largely be manned by Democrats.

The third problem is created by the Truman treatment of the exposures by the Fulbright committee of the scandalous conditions in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. His position is that the committee report, though signed by three Democrats and two Republicans, is "asinine" and that there is nothing wrong in the RFC or in any other of the agencies from which unsavory smells have been coming. It seems impossible to reconcile the Truman position on economy, labor, jobs and scandals with any degree of bipartisanship. If there is an explanation, other than politics, it has not been advanced. It is significant that some strong Administration Senate Democrats privately agree—and deplore—that there is no other.

Dollar for Dollar you can't beat a Pontiac

For Miles and Miles of New Car Pleasure!

Equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.
*Optional at extra cost.

A new Pontiac owner is in for a very satisfying revelation: The thrill of those first miles, the pleasure of new-car performance is built right into a Pontiac and stays there, for miles and miles—year after year!

The first time you get behind the wheel, you are almost sure to feel that nothing can equal the sheer fun of those first few miles! And indeed it is a wonderful feeling to be in command of a performer like Pontiac. Pontiac's power surges easily, eagerly into action; its ride is so smooth and sure-footed; and Pontiac handles with such effortless ease.

No car on the road has a better record of dependability than Pontiac. No car on the road requires less attention. No car will perform so long, so well, with so little maintenance.

This is something very important to think about when you select your next new car. It's one of the important reasons why Dollar for Dollar, You Can't Beat a Pontiac.
